Use the Personalize Homepage option to reorder, delete, and add tiles on any homepage. It also allows you to create your own homepages and populate them with the tiles you use most.

Use your Internet browser's Find feature to locate tiles on a page. On Windows, hold down Ctrl + F. On Mac, hold down Command + F. Type in the tile name or partial name and click Find. The browser will highlight the text on the page.

Many tiles provide access to subpages that provide sets of related tiles.

Customization

The Personalize Homepage option provides the following capabilities:

- 1. Select the homepage you want to modify. You can also drag homepages to reorder them in the drop-down menu.
- 2. Add tiles to any homepage.
- 3. Delete tiles from the homepage.
- 4. Create your own homepages to populate with the tiles you want.

Finding Tiles

Tiles have been organized on different homepages dedicated to roles or functional purpose. In general, tiles have been positioned by order of popularity with the most used resources in the top rows of each homepage. In some cases, homepages will have subpages that provide access to additional tiles. These are tiles that are not used frequently by campus constituents, or are sets of closely related tiles.

If you can't find a tile you think should be on a page, you can use your Internet browser's Find option and search for text that might be in the tile's title.
