The University of Utah is pleased to announce that it has signed a new five-year campus-wide software agreement that makes MathWorks MATLAB Total Academic Headcount (TAH) available to eligible students, staff, and faculty at no cost starting today, Thursday, October 1, 2020.

MathWorks' TAH bundle includes MATLAB, Simulink, and more than 100 companion products — up from 49 products included under previous license agreements.

Users with an existing MathWorks license have been auto-provisioned a new account, that they can access via single sign-on (SSO) through a new MathWorks software portal. The portal includes a list of currently available products. MathWorks customers who have already purchased licenses for the 09/01/2020 through 08/31/2021 licensing term will receive an email from the university's Office of Software Licensing (OSL) about receiving a prorated refund.

Concurrent-use licenses

Individual users or departments that require concurrent-use licenses — designed for shared-use workstations with continuous access to the university network, such as computer labs — should complete this survey. OSL will generate a license file based on the information provided, which will be emailed to the responsible party identified in the survey.

The university has five concurrent-use license options:

- MATLAB TAH Academic Annual License
- MATLAB TAH Classroom Annual License
- MATLAB Parallel Server
- MATLAB Production Server
- MATLAB Web App Server

For details on the MathWorks license, including FAQs, please visit this OSL web page.

If you have any questions about which license to choose, or the agreement in general, please contact OSL at software@utah.edu.
